COMPLETELY CLEANED.

State Bank at Crowder City Is Thoroughly Looted.

ALL CASH CARRIED AWAY

Guard of Four Men Remains on the Outside of the Building and Keeps Citizens Attracted to Spot by Explosion From Preventing Burglary.

Crowder City, Okla., Dec. 2.—State bank at this place was burglarized about 2 o'clock this morning.

A gang of eight men barricaded the bank on all sides previous to breaking open the front doors and looted the building of every vestige of cash and checks. The citizens of the town were aroused by the report of an explosion and rushed from their homes. As the sound came from the locality of the bank a run was made for that place.
Everyone was obliged to fall back, as all were covered by revolvers from behind the barricade. No one dared to fire a shot, and while four robbers held guard the balance accomplished
the work of burglary.

Word was sent to Muskogee to look out for the robbers, as they are said to have gone in that direction.
It is said they were all white men and masked.

Case Goes Over.

Nashville, Dec. 2.—On application
by the defense the trial of Colonel Cooper, Robin Cooper and ex-sheriff
Sharp, indicted for the murder of Senator Carmack at this city Nov. 9, has been postponed until the next term of court which convenes in January.
This case had been set for Dec. 9.

Over Two Thousand Resume.

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 2.—Over 2,000 coke ovens have resumed operations.

Fatal Fall From Train.

Carnegie, Pa., Dec. 2.—W. Young fell from a train, soon dying.

PEOPLE IN POSSESSION.

Port au Prince Under Control of Citizens.

Port au Prince, Dec. 2.—The people of this city have revolted against the Haytian government. They are now in possession of Port au Prince. There has been no fighting with government troops. A provisional government has been established. General Legitime has accepted the presidency of the new administration.

Citizens are in possession of the central police station and all other police outposts, the arsenal and the port.
These bodies of men are all well armed and well supplied with ammunition.
The fact that they are prepared shows the thoroughness with which the movement was organized. As soon as the success of the movement was established a number of prominent citizens held a meeting and formed a committee of public safety for the maintenance of order.

General Legitime was at one time
president of the republic.

Situation Worse.

Pine Bluff, Ark., Dec. 2.—The Jefferson county courthouse has been abandoned and everything possible torn down and removed. The rear of Jefferson hotel was also abandoned.
The rear of these buildings is only a few feet from the caving bank. Business is almost suspended and citizens are working and watching the work of destruction. Circuit court is being held in the city hall. The river reached a stage of twenty-four feet at noon Wednesday. The swift current put the government boats out of commission; as they cannot stem the current.

Leaders Selected.

Houston, Dec. 2.—J. F. Wolters, state chairman of the executive committee of the anti-prohibition forces announces men are selected for the leadership of the organization in each senatorial district and systematic campaigning against the dry forces will be carried on. Mr. Wolters is giving personal supervision to the contest.

MAY ATTACK RATE.

Unprofitable Part of Road Must Not Be Selected.

Austin, Dec. 2.—The supreme court holds that a railroad company has the right to attack any one rate fixed by the railroad commission that is unjust and unreasonable, but that it cannot select one rate and a particular part of its road showing a deficiency in profit and thereby establish that the rate was unreasonable. This decision was reached by the court in answering a certified question from the court of civil appeals of the Third district here in the case of the Santa Fe railway et al., against the railroad commission, wherein it was sought to set aside certain orders of the commission on lumber to Port Arthur and Sabine Pass.

Representative George B. Terrell of Cherokee county, a member of the next legislature, is here. He stated he will advocate an amendment to the anti-pass law so as to permit newspapers to exchange advertising for railroad transportation. He will also favor an amendment to permit giving passes to immigration on Agents. He will vote against the repeal of the tax laws, but for their modification.

The Galveston chamber of commerce won out in the Brownsville railroad differential case in the supreme court, that tribunal having refused application for a writ of error.

This means that the decision of the lower court must stand, which is in favor of the abolishment of the differential on that part of the Brownsville road into Galveston. This is the entering wedge for the abolishment of the Houston-Galveston differential. No opinion was handed down by court in this case.

MAKE IMMENSE HAUL.

Burglars Steal Fourteen Thousand Dollars and Escape in Automobile.

Pepperell, Mass., Dec. 2.—Burglars blew open the vault of the First National bank, securing $14,000 in cash.
They escaped in an automobile.

The thoroughness and skill with which the work was performed convinced the police that the burglars were professionals. There were three men in the party, and although they were seen escaping in an automobile, all trace of them was soon lost, and the authorities are unable to ascertain in which direction they departed. It is believed, however, the burglars went from here to Groton.

The bank vault was blown open about 2 o'clock Wednesday morning, at which time the last of three explosions were heard by Ernest Tarbell, who was sleeping next door. Tarbell armed himself with a revolver and started out, only to find the door of his own house barred from the outside. He succeeded in breaking open the door and immediately started for the bank. Tarbell reached the bank just as the robbers were leaving in the automobile. After shouting an alarm, he fired several shots at the burglars. The shots were fired at a distance of some twenty feet, but there is no indication of any of them taking effect.

The third explosion shattered the entire front wall, behind which the vault is located.

Government Will Aid.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The department of justice, it is understood, will send a representative of that department to San Antonio this month to aid in the prosecution of men in Texas and Mexico who are alleged to have defrauded Kickapoo Indians in Eagle Pass out of Oklahoma lands through forged deeds, etc. Federal grand jury to meet at San Antonio shortly is to investigate and indict men whom Secretary Garfield is anxious to punish.

Shot Four Times.

West Point, Miss., Dec. 2.—F. Hiller, a farmer, was shot four times and killed near here and skull crushed. Two arrests of negroes were made.

Four Coaches Leave Track.

Wichita Falls, Tex., Dec. 2.—A southbound Denver passenger train
No. 8 was wrecked four miles north of here. The train went into the ditch when the tender jumped the track.
Four coaches left the track. All passengers were considerably shaken up, but none injured. Traffic was delayed ten hours by the accident.

Bryan, Texas

A Sample of Carmack's Eloquence.

Taken from a speech which the Tennesseean delivered in the senate on an occasion when his native state had been attacked.

"I speak, sir, for my native South. It is a land that has known sorrows; a land that has broken the ashen crust and moistened it with tears; a land scarred and riven by the plowshare of war and billowed with the graves of her dead, but a land of legend, a land of song, a land of halcyon and heroic memories.

"To that land every drop of my blood, every fiber of my being, every pulsation of my heart, is consecrated forever.

"I was born of her womb, I was nurtured at her breast, and when my last hour shall come, I pray God that I may be pillowed upon her bosom and rocked to sleep within her tender and encircling arms."

The Old and the New.

In his eloquent address of welcome to the Texas conference of Beaumont Congressman Martin Dies grew reminiscent and presented a graphic picture of the vanishing past in contrast with the aggressive present. He said:

In those days we had the genuine Methodist camp meetings. These camps were usually constructed of small pine logs and composed of two pens. Some of the camps were, of course, of a more temporary nature but the country was sparsely settled, and the people came from far and near and camped on the ground for weeks at a time. These meetings occurred in the summer, after crops had been laid by. They were glorious times for everybody, and I can only speak accurately from the standpoint of a small boy. To me they were glorious days—the very millennium of the year's happiness. Whole sacks full of teacakes and other keepable sweets were cooked up in advance for the occasion. Whole beebes were barbecued on the ground. There was preaching and praying and singing and shouting; not just a little bit, but lots and lots of it. If there is a man in this audience who never attended in his boyhood days one of these old-fashioned soul-lifting camp meetings, I feel sorry for that man from the bottom of my heart. I shall not undertake to describe the churches of those days. They were nothing compared with the First Methodist church of Beaumont. They were generally log houses, with an arbor hard by to accommodate large gatherings. These log church houses could not claim many of the present day conveniences. They were located principally with reference to spring water and the public road. They were provided with split-log benches for seats, which rendered the audience more comfortable during prayer than at any other part of the service. I do not know how to describe the general appearance of one of these houses, which were often used for both church and school purposes. It looked like a certain house among the mountains of Arkansas described to me by a friend.

"Has its green blinds, and what color is the house?" inquired a northern lady who wished to visit it. "No, marm," answered the mountaineer, "it haint got no blinds, and it haint got no color." But this church house surpassed the modern in one thing; the ventilation was perfect. It came in from top, bottom, sidwise and otherwise. I believe the good book somewhere speaks of the four winds of heaven. Whoever tried to keep warm in one of these log churches on a December day might believe there were but four winds, but you would never convince him that they didn't have more than four ways of getting into the church.

The simple looking old log church house has passed away, but its tender memories are clinging still. It could not compare in beauty and grandeur with the modern edifice; in point of comfort and capacity it was far behind. But as to faith and charity of those who worshipped at its humble altar, I hazard the guess that it would compare with the very best we possess in this our age of grandeur. To the little log church no man, woman or child was ashamed to go on account of dress, wealth or social position.

sition. No man's daughter remained away because some neighbor's daughter wore finer clothes and jewels than she could buy. Life was not so strenuous then. There was not so much money to be raised then. Man had more time to love his fellow man, and less necessity and temptation to fraud and dishonesty. The children spelled out of the blueback spelling book, and parsed out of Smith's grammar; men folks had time to live and women folks had time to live. But the plain and simple ways are passing rapidly. Some of these plain, slow folks have been run over by automobiles, some killed by aeroplanes, some ruined by "damnation of expenses," while some have "reformed" and are working their "daylight" out trying to keep up with other folks as badly distressed as themselves.

Sometimes I feel that we have traded off a good bit of pure gold for "sounding brass" in many of these changes. Not that we should go back to the loghouse church, or the ox cart, not that; but that the heart-breaking extravagance of this age should be checked and that we might once again come to understand that "fine feathers do not make fine birds," that the words of immortal Burns might again find response in our ideals:

"What thae on hamely fare we dine,
Wear hoddie grey and a' that;
Gie fools their silks and knaves their wine,
A man's a man for a' that."

Ask for Grand American Tourney.

New York, Dec. 2.—The governing body of the Interstate Shooting association met in this city today to discuss plans for the coming season, including the selection of the dates and places for holding the big tournaments. Chicago and several other cities are applicants for the Grand American Handicap tournament, the most important of the annual fixtures in the trap shooting world.

TEXAS A. AND M. THIRD.

Students' Judging of Live Stock Feature for First Day.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 1.—Students representing Iowa Agricultural College of Ames, Iowa, won the students' judging contest, which was the feature of the opening day at the International Stock Exposition in the International Amphitheater. The awards were announced, the Hawkeye boys having been credited with 4,373 for their placings in the horse, cattle, sheep and swine departments.

The awards were announced as follows by Prof. J. H. Sheppard, superintendent of the contest:

	Points.
Iowa Agricultural	4,373
University of Nebraska	4,153
Texas Agricultural	4,081
Missouri Agricultural	4,076
Kansas Agricultural	4,075
Ohio State University	4,036
Ontario Agricultural	3,943
Minnesota Agricultural	3,839

The feature of the event was the victory of United States colleges over the Canadian students.

NOTICE.

A considerable amount is due the city on account of delinquent tax, and considering the fact that the law compels the city to bring suit for the recovery of such delinquent tax, we take this method of notifying those who are delinquent, to call at the City hall as early as possible, and thereby save expense to themselves and the city.

THE WEATHER.

Weather Forecast—Thursday, moderate north winds.

Weather Notes.

Galveston, Dec. 1.—The disturbance central yesterday over Minnesota has moved rapidly eastward over the Lake region and has been followed by a cold wave of considerable intensity. A decided fall in temperature has occurred over a large area extending from the Plateau eastward into the Lake region and Ohio valley and southward to northern Texas. Over the greater portion of this area the temperature has fallen from 20 degrees to over 30 degrees, and it is now below zero in the northwest. The freezing line dips southward through Oklahoma and northwest Texas. Rain has fallen on the Texas coast and in several eastern districts, and light snow in the Rocky mountain region, upper valleys and northern Michigan. At time of report the temperature in Texas ranged from 26 degrees at Amarillo to 64 degrees on the coast.

GOOD TIMES IN CASTRO.

Dimmitt, Tex., Nov. 26.—As this is Thanksgiving day and I am not very busy, I thought I would drop a few lines to the "old home paper," as I have not written since about July. I hope the editor and readers will pardon my long neglect as I have been very busy all the year. Today seven years ago, S. C. Lee and I left Bryan, bound for the plains. After spending some time in Scurry, Garza, Crosby and Hale counties, we landed in Castro, the best county on the plains, and the day is fast approaching when it will be one of the best in Texas. Dec. 27 and 28, I bought land and have been here every since. As far as I know all the Brazos county people here in Castro are well and have made the biggest crop this year they ever made in their lives. I would like to tell just what I have raised this year on my farm of about 180 acres, what I have sold and what I still have on hand. But as I think I left a pretty good name in old Brazos as being truthful, perhaps I had better not say anything about the crop, as my old friends might think I had departed from by raising. So I will say nothing about it, but if some of you people will come and take Christmas with us, we can show you what we can do. We have had a fine fall for gathering and taking care of our crop. Most everyone in our community has finished putting up their crop. There are some new people coming into the country. Land is still advancing. I don't think we will have any trouble finding buyers for all the feed we have to spare. I sold ten tons Kaffir corn last week at $10 per ton to a new man who moved in about August 1. We have a market for all the grain raised in the country by threshing and hauling to Hereford. There is an elevator at Hereford. They buy all kinds of grain at a fair price. The manager told me that they were paying 80 cents per 100 for the maize and Kaffir corn. He also thinks the prices will be much better later on, as people seems to be rushing in a great deal of grain now as the roads are so fine for hauling at present.

Nov. 28.—It rained all day yesterday. Turned colder and rained all night last night with considerable sleet mixed with it. Still cloudy and cold this morning. If we get a good season in the ground now, we can plow all winter and it will also be good on the wheat crop. Wheat was suffering on account of dry weather. Well, as it is cold this morning I have a chance to get my letter to the office. I will close. If the editor of The Eagle, or anyone else would like to know what I and others in this section raised on an average per acre this year and will promise not to call it one of Dixon's "big windies," I will give them a write up and a few figures on it about Christmas. I believe I am the oldest correspondent The Eagle has on the list as I have been writing or the paper for about ten years.

With best wishes for The Eagle and a nice Christmas present from same, I am, as here-24.

THE OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS OF

THE CITY NATIONAL BANK

Wish to call your careful attention to the excellent Statement of the Condition of the Bank as made to the Comptroller of the United States Treasury Nov. 27th, and appearing in this paper. We especially call your attention to our large Cash Reserve, our large Deposits and our large Surplus. By these three items you can tell the strength of any Bank. Any officer of this Bank will consider it a pleasure to answer any questions you may care to ask as to this Statement.

Your account is most earnestly solicited.

THE TAMING OF THE SHREW

Will be Presented Here by Mr. Hanford and His Company of Twenty-Five People.

Mr. F. Lawrence Walker, manager of the Chas. B. Hanford company, was in the city Tuesday, and made the Eagle a most pleasant half-hour visit. Since 1892 Mr. Walker has been identified with America's representative actor in a managerial capacity.

The "Taming of the Shrew" will be presented here, which play, Mr. Walker believes, is Mr. Hanford's greatest success.

Preceding the performance of the Taming of the Shrew, Mr. Hanford, assisted by members of his company, will appear in "The Old Guard" an episode of the battle of Waterloo. This little tragedy will occupy 35 minutes to present. Following this will come the Shakesperian farce comedy, "The Taming of the Shrew" which is presented by Mr. Hanford as Petruchio, Miss Drofah as Katherine, and 22 assisting artists.

It is expected that a number of people will attend the performance from surrounding towns, where advertisements have already been placed, and from which some seat reservations have been requested.

Mrs. A. W. Dyess of Harvey left for Waco Wednesday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Irene McDonald, who is ill at her home in that city.

Ring Vick's Feed Store for all kinds of feed stuff. Home ground chops are purer and better. Corn bought, sold or exchanged for meal. Phone 376

A Practical Joke.

He was a wag and was passing a large draper's shop in Manchester. There, drawn up, were three or four vehicles, and among them was a closed brougham with the driver fast asleep in the box. Evidently the mistress was inside the shop. Without a word the wag stole quickly up and, opening the carriage door, carefully slammed it to. In an instant the coachman straightened himself up and gazed up the street as if he had never seen anything more interesting to look at in his life. Then he stole a look over his shoulder and saw the wag standing, hat in hand, apparently conversing with some one inside the carriage. "Thank you, yes. Good morning," said the practical joker and bowed himself graciously away from the door, turning as he did so to look at the coachman and say, "Home!" "Yes, sir! Tch! Get up!" And away went the brougham home. Where that home was, who the mistress of the carriage was or what she did or said when she came out of the shop or what the coachman did or said when he stopped at the door of "home" and found the carriage empty—all that only the coachman and the lady know. —London Tit-Bits.

A Beggar in a Basket.

Perhaps the most curious use to which Mexicans put their baskets is to hold gamecocks. Sometimes the cock's basket is woven for the purpose; often it is made from a sombrero, the wide, high crowned, straw hat of the country, into which the bird is put, a hole cut in the crown to give him air and the brim carefully tied down that he may not escape. The bullfight has been called the national sport of Mexico, but cockfighting is much more universal, for the humblest peasant may have his gamecock, which he keeps in a carefully made cage in his patio, watches with pride and tends with care.

One of the strangest uses to which a basket has probably ever been put was the daily appearance in the streets of a young man carrying in a huge bushel basket on his shoulders his great-grandmother, of unknown age, who held out a skinny hand to the passer-by for the centavo which was almost unfailingly given. Surely a trust in Providence could go no further.—Eleanor Hope Johnson in Outing Magazine.

Dreams of the Blind.

In my dreams I have sensations, odors, tastes and ideas which I do not remember to have had in reality. Perhaps they are the glimpses which my mind catches through the veil of sleep of my earliest babyhood. I have heard "the trampling of many waters." Sometimes a wonderful light visits me in sleep. Such a flash and glory as it is! I gaze and gaze until it vanishes. I smell and taste much as in my waking hours, but the sense of touch plays a less important part. In sleep I almost never grope. No one guides me. Even in a crowded street I am self sufficient, and I enjoy an independence quite foreign to my physical life. Now I seldom spell on my fingers, and it is still rarer for others to spell into my hand. My mind acts independent of my physical organs. I am delighted to be thus endowed, if only in sleep, for then my soul dons its winged sandals and joyfully joins the throng of happy beings who dwell beyond the reaches of bodily sense.—Helen Keller in Century.

The Cheerful Undertaker.

A most amusing thing occurred one evening upon our arrival at a small town in New Zealand. We found awaiting us at the station the local carriage and pair, with the local undertaker as footman. He was garbed in his usual funereal suit of black, but he had substituted a white tie in order to relieve the situation somewhat, and, evidently with a desire to dispel any morbid impressions he might otherwise have created, he commenced to whistle a selection of the most cheerful tunes he knew, while he held the door open for us and helped us into the carriage.—Clara Butt in Musical Home Journal.

Cashing Up.

"Have you ever played poker with your son-in-law?" "Only once," answered Mr. Cumrox. "It wasn't very satisfactory." "Did he win?" "No; he lost. But it merely resulted in my having to write him a check so that he could indorse it over to me."—Washington Star.

A Slander.

Member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union—Did you write this notice of my lecture on "The Demour Rum?" Editor—Yes, madam. Member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union—Then I would like to know what you mean by saying, "The lecturer was evidently full of her subject."—Judge.

Lucky.

Rustic—What's the matter? Motorist—Matter! I can't get this car to go. Rustic—Then it's the lucky man you are, for just yesterday a motorist got nearly smashed to bits here because he couldn't get his car to stop.

BRYAN, TEXAS, DEC. 2, 1908.

A GET-TOGETHER MOVEMENT.

The meeting of the Farmers' Union in the courthouse Tuesday, was attended by some of the most prominent bankers, merchants and teachers of Bryan. These gentlemen were present by invitation of the farmers and some of them in response to calls made practical talks on the subjects the farmers are discussing. The farmers may not regard all that was said by the business men as practicable and applicable to present conditions but that they appreciate the suggestions offered and will profit by some of them, there is no doubt. On the other hand, the townsmen absorbed both information and inspiration by their association with men who have for several years past battled successfully with the unusual difficulties that have beset the farmer.

It is not of record that there has ever been in Brazos county anything like the feeling of class antagonism which has prevailed in some other places. The writer has known counties where the country people were always talking about "the town clique" which with more or less justice they hated most cordially and in some of the towns the people were "so stuck up" that they looked upon the residents of the rural districts as inferiors and mistreated them to such an extent that they were driven to do their trading in rival towns. In such cases both parties were to blame and both suffered the consequences of their folly. It was like the spirit of religious bigotry that exhausted its energies in internecine strife during the last generation but is now giving way to a spirit of harmony and co-operation for the good of all.

In this get-together movement the farmers of Brazos county and the business men of Bryan have no wall of prejudice to break down but there is a slough of indifference to be bridged, as evidenced by the small attendance Tuesday. Every member of the Retail Merchants' Association and of the Farmers' Union ought to have been present unless he was kept away by unavoidable circumstances, which it is not reasonable to suppose was the case except in a few instances.

Those who did attend and participate in making the meeting a success are entitled to the honor of leading in a movement which promises much for Bryan and Brazos county. It is hoped that they will persevere, that other meetings will be held and that the discussion of the obstacles to thorough and cordial co-operation will be continued until a complete understanding is reached and we shall learn how to work together, each in his own sphere, for the common good. The educational value of such consultations is inestimable. The farmer can explain and demonstrate to the merchant and the banker many things that they ought to know and can in turn secure instruction in methods of doing business that will help him to solve the problem of bettering his condition. In this way all can be led to appreciate and to understand that no man can do injustice to his neighbor without injuring himself.

Some people enjoy being eccentric but it is an expensive luxury.

All nations are pleased with the American-Japanese agreement. They have to be.

The Galveston News is severe. It says: "The kind of people who refuse to build sidewalks in front of their residences deserve no company other than that of mud hens."

How can anybody expect real tariff reform with Jim Sherman presiding over the Senate and Joe Cannon bossing the house?

Experimenters in Germany are convinced that airships cannot fly high enough to get out of range of cannon shot. Wing shots will be something new and exciting in future wars.

Attorney General Davidson wants two more assistants. Why are so many Texas lawyers volunteering to defend Clay Pierce and none seeming to care whether the State has a lawyer or not.

District Judge Dwyer has created a sensation in San Antonio by strongly and emphatically charging the grand jury to enforce the Baskin-McGregor law. If he succeeds in lidding femaleville he will rank among the great reformers.

Roosevelt has rewarded Dan Keefe for his treachery to the American Federation of Labor by appointing him commissioner general of immigration. This is positive proof of the charge made during the campaign that Keefe had sold out for the promise of an office.

Wiley Imboden is going to quit editing the Austin Statesman and will go to Stamford to practice law. Then probably he will boast, as Mose Harris did, that he has quit being an editor and become a gentleman. But Mose fell from grace and so will Wiley. See if he don't.

Chief Engineer Marshall, after investigating the waterways of Texas, on his arrival at Washington said: "Texas is the only state I have visited where the rivers all run the right way." He is especially enthusiastic about the Brazos and the Trinity as highways of commerce.

The New England shoemakers want the tariff reformed to the extent of taking the duty off hides. Texas produces more hides than any other state and nobody in Texas was notified of the hearing on hides. This is a sample of the fairness of the tariff revisers and an intimation of what Texas and the South may expect.

In a sermon at Beaumont last Sunday, Bishop Candler said:

"There is a well-known book entitled, 'The Decisive Battle of the World.' But there never was a decisive battle. Battles decide nothing. They merely determine who is beaten for the present, and he remains beaten only so long as he cannot help himself. Battles are merely external conflicts of internal forces. The battle decides nothing, but the unseen forces decide everything."

FOR LOVE OF A GIRL.

Louis Ferrari Slew Brother—Strange Compact.

Geneva, Dec. 2.—The rivalry of two brothers in a love affair has just had an unusual and tragic ending near Zurich. Louis and Charles Ferrari were Italians, and had never quarreled until both fell in love with a pretty Italian girl of Zurich. Then they became hated rivals, each swearing that he would marry the girl. She did not favor one or the other. The brothers formed a strange compact. It was arranged that the first who saw the other after a certain period should have the right to put him out of the way.

The brothers did not meet for a month. Then Louis Ferrari, who was proceeding to work on his bicycle, met his brother Charles on the road. The latter was aiming a revolver at Louis, who dismounted and shot him dead. The slayer produced a copy of the death compact in court and the judge sentenced him to only a month's imprisonment.

Social Scientists Confer.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 2.—The annual meeting of the Minnesota Academy of Social Sciences, opening with a public session at the University of Minnesota this evening, promises to be an extremely interesting and profitable gathering. The meeting will continue over tomorrow.

Among the topics scheduled for discussion are the geological and geographical structure of Minnesota, the policy of the state regarding timber lands, social conditions in Minnesota, the state's educational system and its present status, and the development of charitable institutions in Minnesota.

JOHN CHAMP CLARK.

Will Succeed John Sharp Williams in the House.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—Though the congressional mill will not begin to grind until next week, the usual preliminaries in the way of committee meetings and conferences are already well under way. Of these preliminaries by far the most interest attaches to the caucus of the Democratic members of the House, which has been called for Saturday to choose a leader to succeed Representative John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, who retired from the minority leadership last spring upon his election to the senate.

Well known and Popular.

There is little room to doubt that the leadership will fall to Representative Champ Clark of Missouri. Mr. Williams and his friends are supporting the Missourian. There is little opposition to Mr. Clark, although the name of Representative Henry of Texas has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the leadership. Mr. Clark's colleague, Representative DeArmond, has aspired to the leadership for a number of years and his defeat for that honor by Mr. Williams was one of the causes of the enmity between the two which culminated in a personal encounter on the floor of the House last winter.

Talks with leading Democratic members who have arrived in Washington indicate that Clark has virtually a sure thing of the leadership. It is claimed today by the Clark supporters that neither DeArmond nor Henry will develop any considerable strength in the caucus.

Champ Clark is probably the best-known figure on the Democratic side and, without much question, the most popular one. For several reasons his elevation to the minority leadership is worthy of notice. There promises to be some phases of his leadership that will be in marked distinction to the leadership of John Sharp Williams. Many Democrats believe, and in this number are some of the best friends of Mr. Williams, that Mr. Clark will make a more effective leader than did the noted member from Mississippi. For one thing, the Missouri representative will go into the leadership with practically the united support of the Democrats of the House. He is accounted a better politician than Williams and less inclined to consult his personal likes and dislikes in the make-up of the committees, on the Democratic side, with reference solely to personal fitness. One of the important committees to which he will have to give attention is the Ways and Means Committee, in view of the fact that the revision of the tariff is supposedly near at hand. It is not to be undertaken in the Sixtieth Congress but, as the Ways and Means Committee is made up at this session, it will be for the most part in the Sixty-First Congress. Mr. Clark is now the ranking minority member on the Ways and Means Committee. If he becomes the minority leader he will leave the committee himself and it is expected as an act of courtesy will put in his place DeArmond of Missouri. DeArmond is a hard worker and a strong advocate of tariff revision.

Has Had Broad Experience.

Few members of the House on either side have had a wider range of experience than has Mr. Clark. He is fifty-eight years old and a native of Kentucky. He was graduated from Kentucky University at Lexington and studied law at the Cincinnati Law school. In 1873 and 1874 he was president of the first normal school established in West Virginia. After his experience there he removed to Missouri and became principal of the high school at Louisiana in that state. In 1876 he began the active practice of law and for several years served as city attorney of Louisiana. Then came a period of two years of service as editor of a country newspaper.

Is Pretty Well Fixed.

Mr. Clark's public career dates from 1880, in which year he was chosen a presidential elector and also a member of the Missouri legislature. He was elected to the Fifty-third Congress in 1892, and to the Fifty-fifth Congress in 1896 and has since been biennially re-elected from the Ninth Missouri district. He is an eloquent speaker and ready in debate, as more than one of his Republican opponents have found out when they engaged him in a forensic tilt. Mr. Clark is supposed to be pretty well fixed financially, a large part of his wealth having been made in recent years on the lecture platform.

Plan Big Inland Waterway.

New Orleans, Dec. 2.—The advance guard of delegates has arrived in New Orleans for the big inland waterways convention which is to begin a two days' session here tomorrow. The chief purpose of the convention is to discuss plans for the projected inland waterway from New Orleans to the Rio Grande river at Brownsville, Texas. The plans adopted will be presented to the rivers and harbors convention to be held next week in Washington.

Revolution in Lighting System.

Rome, Dec. 2.—Prof. Pierucci, the eminent Italian physicist of Pisa, announces that he has invented a new species of paper, which is destined to revolutionize the present system of lighting. It is intended to supersede the mantle hitherto in use in the incandescent system of lighting, and will also be very valuable for photographic purposes.

Oklahoma City, Dec. 2.—The meeting of the Woodmen of the World, which assembled in this city today, is one of the largest fraternal society gatherings ever held in Oklahoma. Several thousand members of the order are in attendance and at the initiation nearly 2,000 new members will be taken in. Sovereign Commander Root of Omaha is the guest of honor.

ILLINOIS CELEBRATES.

The Anniversary of Her Admission to the Sisterhood of States.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 3.—Fourscore and ten years ago today President James Monroe signed the birth certificate of Illinois as a State of the Union and birthday celebrations were held today in this city, in Chicago and elsewhere throughout the state. Special exercises were held in a number of schools and colleges.

The act enabling the people of Illinois to form a constitution and fixing the present northern boundary was passed by Congress April 18, 1818. The constitutional convention met in August and without great difficulty formulated the constitution.

Nathaniel Pope, at that time delegate in Congress from the Territory of Illinois, had an important part in securing affirmative action by Congress on the enabling act to Illinois, providing for statehood. After an energetic struggle he succeeded in having incorporated in the bill a provision that the northern boundary of the state be at its present location, giving to the state fourteen counties and the city of Chicago, as it now stands, which would have been within Wisconsin boundaries under the original provision. This was for the purpose, and so held by Mr. Pope, of preserving within one state a complete system of waterways which might be used in the future to connect Lake Michigan with the Mississippi river.

The first election of State officers under the new constitution was held Sept. 17, 1818, upon the assurance from Washington that the constitution formulated would be approved by the President, and Shadrach Bond was elected the first governor. The first general assembly met at Kaskaskia, which was the first capital, Oct. 5, 1818, and Governor-elect Bond was inaugurated the following day.

During the early years of statehood Illinois was distinctly a frontier state. Iowa was not organized until 1846, and until that time Illinois marked the westernmost boundary of organized civilization in the country.

President W. L. Edge of the Brazos County Farmers' Union was a business visitor to the city Wednesday morning and made The Eagle a most pleasant call.

Mr. I. M. Powell of Madison county was a business visitor to the city Wednesday. Mr. Powell sold cotton and purchased supplies in the leading interior market.

FOR SALE—Office furniture and fixtures, including good iron safe and nice roller top desk. Moore, Robinson & Adams. 310-Wittmont Enterprise.

Messrs. Sidney Smith and Roger Nall left yesterday for Hall's lake, where several days will be spent in hunting and fishing. Messrs. Hudson Myers, Lawrence Conway, Henry Rohde and Alf Patterson preceded the party first mentioned, and all are now at the lake.

Attention is directed to the nice display ad of Mr. A. McKenzie, appearing in this issue of The Eagle. A wide variety of subjects are dealt with in the ad, and seasonable specialties are mentioned. A cordial invitation is extended the public to visit his store and inspect the stock.

Mr. Frank Brown of Zulch, Madison county, sold cotton in this market Wednesday. We are glad to have our Madison county friends with us, again. Bryan is the best cotton market in the interior and the best point to buy goods, and the Madison county people are wide awake to their own interests by doing business here.

Fine business resulted from the ad placed by Mr. Will S. Higgs in The Eagle, announcing his closing out sale. Mr. Wren states that it seemed as though everybody in the city read the ad and made purchases. He is well pleased and highly appreciative of the business the people of this vicinity have accorded. The prices hold good, as advertised, so long as any of the stock lasts.

Mr. L. A. Cook of Keith, Grimes county, was in the city Wednesday, disposing of some of his cotton, and buying goods. As a trade magnet the high price (comparatively) paid for cotton by Bryan buyers, and the tremendous and complete stocks and close prices of the merchants is irresistible. It is a fine argument to a man who wants the most for his crop, and the most for his money.

Haswell's book store has been transformed into a veritable "Wonderland" and the claim that it is the home of Santa Claus does not seem to be overstated. A tremendous line of toys and holiday goods is now ready for inspection. By the way, Mr. Haswell would like to get in touch with Sunday school superintendents and others who expect to feature Christmas tree entertainments this year. He has ornaments and suitable gifts, and can make the price.

The Eagle desires particularly to have its farmer readers peruse the cotton market printed in this issue. We think it is worth while—not that the price of cotton is high, but it will give an idea of what Bryan buyers are doing in the matter of prices. We know our farmers and some of the farmers of neighboring counties read The Eagle's market quotations, but as stated, we would like to have all read it today. We think our buyers are paying the limit, and considerably more than buyers in other towns.

THE COTTON MARKET.

The big feature of the cotton market, so far as it concerns the producers of this section is, that notwithstanding a 25 point decline in the future market since last Saturday night, the Bryan market is only 1-8 lower.

Another thing which should be of much interest to all in this section is the fact that the spot market of Bryan, is relatively higher than that of either Galveston or Houston, and incomparably higher than any other point in the interior of the state, except one.

It is a fact, that the Bryan cotton buyers cannot afford to sell in the markets last named. They would lose money by doing so.

Liverpool opened and closed Wednesday about unchanged from Tuesday, with spot sales of 6,000 bales, which was considered, rather a bad feature, and considerably below transactions in that market a few days ago.

The American markets opened about 3 to 4 points lower and closed 6 to 8 points up from Tuesday. It is believed by those competent to express an opinion, that there will be no further decline at present, and there should be slightly improved prices.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat's estimate of the size of the crop, 12,800,000 bales, not including linters and repacks, is regarded as slightly bullish, as 13,000,000 bales was the popular belief.

A contributing factor to the decline in the markets is believed to be the profit taking of the bull organization, and the fact that the decline was not greater is evidence of the strong position of the future market. Heavy receipts at ports continue, and the Liverpool and Continental demand has been considerably curtailed, but notwithstanding this, prices have held up well, which is regarded as an encouraging sign.

Wednesday's Prices:

Low middling 7 1-8c.
Strict low middling 8 1-8c.
Middling 8 1-2c.
Strict middling 8 11-16c.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kurten Jr., were in the city yesterday from their home at Kurten.

Mrs. E. B. Brogden of Houston, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Patterson of this city for several days past, left for Waco yesterday to visit friends.

Mr. Louis W. Bullard of Oklahoma City, but originally from Boston, arrived here yesterday. Mr. Bullard is an experienced dry goods man and window dresser, and is with Mr. Eugene Edge on the corner. The crystal windows of this handsome store provided the ideal place for the exercise of the draper's happiest fancy or the colorist's rosiest dream.

The boll weevil has robbed the farmers of Brazos county of millions but some of them have gained the worth of their losses in experience. Under the old all-cotton system crop mortgages were the rule; now they are almost extinct. The day may come when Brazos county farmers will regard the boll weevil as a blessing in disguise.

BECKVILLE FIRE SWEPT.

North Side of the Town Is Completely Devastated.

Longview, Tex., Dec. 2.—Intelligence was received over the telephone that the whole north side of Beckville was swept away by fire. The fire started in McClelland's drug store the first store in the northern block, and as all the wooden buildings were interspersed with brick buildings everything was swept by the strong north wind.

That prosperous town is situated on the Santa Fe railway, twenty-eight miles south of this place, with stores on each side of the track about 100 yards apart.

The north side which burned was composed of J. J. McClelland's drug store, B. F. Carpenter, general merchandise; Clifton hotel, Moore & Phillips, general merchandise; T. A. Knight's hotel and Daniel's feed store. All are a total loss and only partly covered with insurance.

It took valiant effort to keep the fire from spreading to stores on the south side.

The loss is estimated at $200,000.

Considerable Washed Out.

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 2.—Despite every caution several hundred feet of track of Santa Fe railway near Claremore were washed out early Wednesday. Through train service was annulled pending repairs. Trains were detoured via the Iron Mountain and a Kty roads.

Big Blaze at Waelder.

Gonzales, Tex., Dec. 3.—A destructive fire which visited Waelder, thirty miles north of here early Wednesday morning caused a loss of over $20,000. Many buildings were ruined. It was the worst fire in the history of the town. Insurance is $9,000.

Percentage Large.

New York, Dec. 2.—When the cross-examination of John D. Archbold was resumed in the Standard Oil suit Wednesday, Archbold was asked about the percentage of business done by Standard interests in 1879, but he said he would only state that it was large.

Masonic Charters Granted.

Waco, Dec. 2.—Masonic grand lodge granted charters to the following towns: Bynum, Kempner, Utopia, Roscoe, Shiro, Onalaska, Humble, Barksdale and Thorndale.

Kobe, Japan, Dec. 2.—The Japanese steamer Geinsei foundered off Wei Hei Wei. The entire crew and all passengers are lost.

A Star on Stars.

He was one of the leading actors of America of international fame—and he was talking off guard.

"Women certainly have the best of it on the stage," he said, "although they may not always think so. Whatever a man attains in the dramatic profession he must toil for, but a woman with a little bit of talent can make a hit, if she has a pretty face or figure, that will place her in a brief time and almost without labor in a position of financial independence, to say nothing of being a popular idol. No; I trust I'm not envious, but sometimes I feel a bit discouraged when I contrast my years of toil with the hop, skip and jump that lands a round faced girl at the front."—New York Press.

MILITARY AERONAUTICS.

Major Squier Imparts Valuable Information.

New York, Dec. 2.—Before the American Society of Mechanical Engineers Major G. O. Squier of the signal corps presented an interesting document.

It was a most exhaustive paper on the subject of the present status of military aeronautics, taking his theme largely from a scientific standpoint, but also touching upon the popular side of the question. His paper was accompanied by a series of excellent photographs showing the operations of dirigible balloons and aeroplanes in this country and abroad.

A resistless wave of enthusiasm and endeavor, sweeping away every prejudice, Major Squier declared, is passing over the entire civilized world, fixing the attention of all classes on the problem of flight.

He discussed at some length the question of aerial locomotion in warfare. Whatever may be the influence of aerial navigation upon the art of war, he said, the fact which must be considered at present is that each of the principal military powers is displaying a feverish activity in developing this auxiliary as an adjunct to the military establishment. Regarding the technical use of dirigibles and aeroplanes in warfare, Major Squier held there was nothing but theory at present to guide us. However, in case of the former it would appear, he said, that two different classes of ships should be developed, first, a comparatively dirigible type to be used principally for scouting purposes and, to a limited extent, for carrying explosives for demolition and incendiary purposes, such as destroying bridges and supply depots close to the mobile army or coast defense fortresses. In reconnoitering in day they would have to maneuver a mile high, but at night could descend to within a few hundred feet and obtain much valuable information. The second type of dirigible may be developed for burden bearing purposes.

There is no reason to doubt that airships of a capacity of 5,000 to 1,000,000 cubic feet may be ultimately developed to obtain speeds of fifty to seventy-five miles an hour. With such capacity the craft becomes a practicable engine of war which may be used in all ordinary war. By keeping high in the air in the daylight and ascending in the night they may be able to launch high explosives producing great damage. Being able to pass over armies and proceed at great speed, the objectives would not be the enemy's armies, but their efforts would be directed against his base of supplies, to destroy his dry docks, arsenals, ammunition depots, railway centers, storehouses and, indeed the enemy's navy itself.

Major Squier recognizes that suitable harbors or places of safety for replenishing supplies and for seeking shelter in times of stress for the larger types of dirigibles will be necessary just as ships need harbors. But this want may be met by using narrow, deep valleys and ravines, surrounded by forests, or other protection, or prepared railway cuts, etc., where the airship may descend and be reasonably safe from the winds above.

He declared that if the United States had possessed in 1898 a single dirigible balloon the American army and navy would not have long been in doubt of the presence of Cervera's fleet in Santiago harbor. He believes that the perfection of ships of the air for military purposes will materially contribute on the whole to make war less likely in the future than in the past.

The people of Port au Prince have turned against Nord Alexis. The palace is surrounded by an infuriated mob calling upon him to leave the country. Almost everybody in the crowd is armed. Women are beside themselves with rage, calling down curses on the head of the aged man, who has been deposed from the presidency of republic, and are hurling coarse epithets at him and his family.

Judge Surprises Several.

Nashville, Dec. 2.—Judge Matthews in circuit court here surprised the state's attorneys from Union City who are here to secure the return to Obion county of Garrett and Tom Johnson, Sam Applewhite, Roy Rowsom, Bob Leo, Jesse Starter, Lige Cloar and Bob Huffman to answer to indictments charging them with murder, by holding the sheriff, attorneys and everyone in anyway connected with the service capiasos on prisoners here guilty of contempt of this court. He further stated technical arrests made Tuesday on prisoners in jail were illegal.

Leprosy Takes Mrs. Wardell.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 2.—Mrs. Wardell, the leper wife of General Wardell, whose case created such a stir in this community and Arizona, died Wednesday of leprosy in the county hospital.
